

I would like to express my support for a national telephone service for people with speech disabilities. This service, called Speech-to-Speech, exists in California and four other states. I want to see the FCC to expand it to all 50 states over the next two years.