The Media Bureau reminds digital television stations that their Annual DTV Ancillary/Supplementary Use Services Report for Digital Television Stations (FCC Form 317) is due on or before December 1, 2014.

Who Must File

All licensees or permittees operating pursuant to digital special temporary authority of a digital commercial or noncommercial educational full power television, low power television, television translator or Class A television station must submit FCC Form 317.

FCC Form 317

The above-outlined digital television stations must submit a separate FCC Form 317 for each station detailing whether they provided “ancillary or supplementary services” at any time during the twelve month period ending on September 30, 2014. Specifically, these digital television stations must include in their annual report: (A) a brief description of the ancillary or supplementary services provided; (B) which services were feeable; (C) whether any services provided were not subject to a fee; (D) the gross revenues received from all feeable services provided during the applicable period; and (E) the amount of bitstream used to provide services during the applicable period. In addition, all DTV stations providing feeable services must remit a fee of five percent of the gross revenues derived from such feeable services, as defined by the rules.<sup>1</sup>

All Stations Must File

All of the above-outlined digital television stations must submit FCC Form 317 by December 1, 2014 even if they did not provide ancillary or supplementary services.

Section 73.624(g) of the rules states that: “[f]ailure to file regardless of revenues from ancillary or supplementary services or provision of such services may result in appropriate sanctions.”<sup>2</sup>
