ORDER

Adopted: March 7, 2016

Released: March 7, 2016

By the Chief, Enforcement Bureau:

1. The Enforcement Bureau (Bureau) of the Federal Communications Commission has entered into a Consent Decree to resolve its investigation into whether Cellco Partnership, d/b/a Verizon Wireless (Verizon Wireless or Company) failed to disclose to consumers that it was inserting Unique Identifier Headers (UIDH) into consumers’ Internet traffic over its wireless network. Verizon Wireless’s targeted advertising programs (Verizon Selects and Relevant Mobile Advertising (RMA)) associate UIDH with Verizon Wireless customer proprietary information as well as other customer demographic and interest information to create profiles in order to serve targeted advertisements.

2. In December 2014, the Bureau began an investigation into Verizon Wireless after news stories raised privacy concerns with its use of UIDH and the Commission received related consumer complaints. The investigation sought to determine Verizon Wireless’s compliance with Section 222 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (Act)¹, and Section 8.3 of the Commission’s rules (Open Internet Transparency Rule).²

3. Section 222 of the Act imposes a duty on carriers to protect their customers’ proprietary information and use such information only for authorized purposes.³ It also expressly prohibits carriers that obtain proprietary information from other carriers for the provision of telecommunications services to use such information for any other purpose.⁴ The Commission’s Open Internet Transparency Rule requires every fixed and mobile broadband Internet access service provider to “publicly disclose accurate information regarding the network management practices, performance, and commercial terms of its broadband Internet access services sufficient for consumers to make informed choices regarding use of such services and for content, application, service, and device providers to develop, market, and maintain Internet offerings.”⁵

4. The Bureau’s investigation found that although Verizon Wireless began inserting UIDH into consumers’ Internet traffic as early as December 2012, the Company did not disclose this practice until October 2014. It was not until March 2015—over two years later—that Verizon Wireless updated its privacy policy to include information about UIDH. The Bureau's investigation also found that at least one of Verizon Wireless's advertising partners used UIDH for unauthorized purposes to circumvent consumers' privacy choices by restoring deleted cookies. In addition, the Bureau's investigation found that Verizon Wireless inserted UIDH into the Internet traffic made from mobile device lines, including enterprise, government, and Mobile Virtual Network Operator (MVNO) lines, which were ineligible to participate in Verizon Wireless's targeted advertising programs.

5. To settle this matter, Verizon Wireless will pay a fine of $1,350,000 and implement a compliance plan that requires it to obtain customer opt-in consent prior to sharing a customer's UIDH with a third party to deliver targeted advertising. With respect to sharing UIDH internally within Verizon Communications Inc. and its subsidiaries,⁶ it must obtain either opt-in or opt-out consent from its customers. Verizon Wireless will also generate customer UIDH using methods that comply with reasonable and accepted security standards.

6. Verizon Wireless cooperated with the Bureau's investigation. During the pendency of the Bureau's investigation, Verizon Wireless updated its customer-facing documents, including its privacy policy, to disclose UIDH to consumers and also provided consumers—for the first time—with a choice to opt out of UIDH in March 2015. Given Verizon Wireless's updates concerning UIDH, the compliance plan also requires Verizon Wireless to maintain its current practices of: (1) removing UIDH from enterprise, government, and MVNO lines within a reasonable period after activation and in those cases not use such UIDH for any purpose; (2) allowing customers who opt in to sharing UIDH to subsequently opt out at any time, and (3) disclosing Verizon Wireless practices and use of UIDH in its privacy policies and FAQs and update them as appropriate.

7. In addition, Verizon Wireless will appoint a Compliance Officer that will be responsible for ensuring that Verizon Wireless complies with the terms of the Consent Decree. The Compliance Officer or the managers reporting to the Compliance Officer must be privacy certified. Verizon Wireless must report any noncompliance with the terms of the Consent Decree and file regular compliance reports during the three-year term of the compliance plan. If during the pendency of the Compliance Plan, the Commission adopts a rule regarding customer opt-in and opt-out consent in connection with the subject matter of the Consent Decree, such rule will supersede the related terms of the Consent Decree.

8. After reviewing the terms of the Consent Decree and evaluating the facts before us, we find that the public interest would be served by adopting the Consent Decree and terminating the referenced investigation regarding Verizon Wireless's compliance with Section 222 of the Act and Section 8.3 of the Commission's rules.⁷

9. In the absence of material new evidence relating to this matter, we do not set for hearing the question of Verizon Wireless's basic qualifications to hold or obtain any Commission license or authorization.⁸

10. Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that, pursuant to Section 4(i) of the Act⁹ and the authority delegated by Sections 0.111 and 0.311 of the Commission's rules,¹⁰ the attached Consent Decree IS ADOPTED and its terms incorporated by reference.

11. IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the above-captioned matter IS TERMINATED.

⁶ As defined in paragraph 2(q) of the Consent Decree.

⁸ See 47 CFR § 1.93(b).

⁹ 47 U.S.C. § 154(i).

12. IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this Order and Consent Decree shall be sent by first class mail and certified mail, return receipt requested, to Tamara Preiss, Vice President, Federal Regulatory Affairs, Cellco Partnership, d/b/a Verizon Wireless, 1300 I Street, NW, Washington, DC 20005, and to Christopher M. II. BACKGROUND

3. Verizon Communications Inc. is a holding company that owns operating subsidiaries that provide a range of communications services in the United States and select foreign countries.⁵ Its wholly-owned subsidiary, Verizon Wireless, provides retail and wholesale wireless voice and data services to customers.

4. Verizon Wireless began testing a targeted advertising service in October 2012 and began offering the service to its subscribers in December 2012.⁶ Verizon Wireless operates two advertising programs that use the UIDH: Relevant Mobile Advertising (RMA) and Verizon Selects.⁷ Verizon

Wireless began offering the RMA program in 2012 and Verizon Selects in 2014. According to Verizon Wireless, the difference between the two programs relates to the type of information Verizon Wireless uses about its customers to target advertisements.⁸

5. Verizon Selects uses a variety of customer information to develop profiles of participating customers in order to deliver targeted advertising to those customers. Verizon Wireless asserts that its program Verizon Selects uses the following customer information: (a) addresses of websites visited; (b) device location; (c) apps and device features used; (d) postal and e-mail addresses; (e) information about Verizon Wireless products and services usage, including customer proprietary network information (CPNI);⁹ and (f) demographic and interest information provided by third parties, such as gender, age range, and interests (e.g. sports fan, frequent diner, or pet owner).¹⁰ Since the launch of Verizon Selects in 2014, in order for Verizon Wireless subscribers to participate in Verizon Selects, subscribers must affirmatively opt into the program through, among other means, their online accounts or by following links provided in the Verizon Wireless privacy policy.¹¹

6. According to Verizon Wireless, the RMA program also uses various customer information to deliver targeted advertising to customers who participate in RMA. Verizon Wireless asserts that RMA uses the following customer information: (a) postal and e-mail addresses; (b) certain information about Verizon Wireless products and services, such as device type; and (c) demographic and interest categories that Verizon Wireless obtains from other companies, such as gender, age range, and interests.¹² Customers receive notice of RMA upon activation of service and are given the opportunity to opt out, but eligible Verizon Wireless subscribers are otherwise automatically enrolled in the RMA program.¹³ Since the launch of RMA in 2012, subscribers may opt-out of RMA through, among other means, their online accounts or by following links provided in Verizon Wireless's privacy policy.¹⁴

⁹ See 47 U.S.C. § 222(h)(1) (the term "customer proprietary network information" means (a) information that relates to the quantity, technical configuration, type, destination, location, and amount of use of a telecommunications service subscribed to by any customer of a telecommunications carrier, and that is made available to the carrier by the customer solely by virtue of the carrier-customer relationship; and (b) information contained in the bills pertaining to telephone exchange service or telephone toll service received by a customer of a carrier).

7. In connection with both the Verizon Selects and RMA programs, Verizon Wireless inserts UIDH into the HTTP requests made by eligible mobile wireless subscribers and transmitted over the Verizon Wireless network.¹⁵ As early as December 2012, Verizon Wireless began inserting UIDH into HTTP Internet traffic transmitted over Verizon Wireless's network.

8. In November 2014, several news stories raised privacy concerns with Verizon Wireless's use of UIDH and the Commission received related complaints.¹⁶ On December 4, 2014, the Bureau issued the LOI to Verizon Wireless directing it to provide information regarding the insertion of UIDH into consumers' HTTP requests made over Verizon Wireless's network.¹⁷ Specifically, the Investigation sought to determine Verizon Wireless's compliance with the Open Internet Transparency Rule and Section 222 of the Act. The Transparency Rule requires BIAS providers, including wireless mobile broadband providers, to disclose accurate information regarding their mobile broadband Internet access services sufficient for consumers to make informed choices regarding such services.¹⁸ Under Section 222 of the Act, a telecommunications carrier has a duty to protect its customers' proprietary information and any "telecommunications carrier that receives or obtains proprietary information from another carrier for purposes of providing any telecommunications service shall use such information only for such purpose, and shall not use such information for its own marketing efforts."¹⁹ Verizon Wireless submitted an initial response to the LOI on January 13, 2015,²⁰ provided supplemental responses and other submissions, and engaged in several discussions with the Bureau related to the Investigation.

9. Although Verizon Wireless began inserting UIDH into subscribers' HTTP Internet traffic as early as December 2012, and described its advertising programs in its privacy policy and elsewhere, Verizon Wireless did not specifically disclose the presence of UIDH and its uses until October 2014.²¹ At Most Verizon Wireless consumer and small business accounts are eligible to be included in the RMA program. Government, enterprise, Mobile Virtual Network Operator subscribers' lines are not eligible. A Mobile Virtual Network Operator is a wireless communications provider that does not own the wireless network infrastructure over which it provides services to its subscribers.

that time, Verizon Wireless made the disclosure in its UIDH “Frequently Asked Questions” (FAQs) section of its website.²² In late March 2015, Verizon Wireless updated its privacy policy to include a disclosure regarding UIDH.²³

10. As part of its original FAQs addressing the UIDH, Verizon Wireless said that “[i]t is unlikely that sites and ad entities will attempt to build customer profiles for online advertising or any other purpose using the UIDH.”²⁴ News reports in January 2015, identified a Verizon Wireless advertising partner that, according to those news reports, used UIDH for unauthorized purposes.²⁵ Specifically, according to the news reports, this advertising partner restored its cookie IDs that users cleared from their browsers by associating them with Verizon Wireless UIDHs.²⁶ In February 2015, Verizon Wireless acknowledged those news articles raising concerns about the advertising partner’s use of UIDH for purposes outside of Verizon Wireless’s advertising programs in its UIDH FAQs.²⁷ It also stated that it “will work with other partners to ensure that their use of UIDH is consistent with the purposes intended.”²⁸

11. During the course of the Investigation, Verizon Wireless updated its customer-facing documents. On March 31, 2015, Verizon Wireless updated its privacy policy to specifically disclose the presence of UIDH and provided a related opt-out capability for its subscribers.²⁹ Further, Verizon Wireless updated its UIDH FAQ disclosures to describe, among other things, what UIDH is and how it is used, and the UIDH opt-out choices available to subscribers.³⁰ Verizon Wireless also updated its RMA and Verizon Selects FAQs to describe what customer information is used and for what purposes, choices customers can make about the use of their data, and who has access to customer data.³¹ On March 31, 2015, Verizon Wireless modified its systems to stop inserting the UIDH after a customer opts out of the RMA program unless that customer has chosen to participate in Verizon Selects. In addition, following Verizon's acquisition of AOL,³² Verizon announced a combination of the Verizon Wireless and AOL advertising programs and committed to transmit UIDH only to entities that are on a pre-approved "white list."³³

The Bureau also agrees that, in the absence of new material evidence, it will not use the facts developed in the Investigation through the Effective Date, or the existence of this Consent Decree, to institute any proceeding, formal or informal, or to set for hearing the question of Verizon Wireless's basic qualifications to be a Commission licensee or hold Commission licenses or authorizations.³⁵

17. Compliance Officer. Within thirty (30) calendar days after the Effective Date, Verizon Wireless shall designate a senior corporate manager with the requisite corporate and organizational authority to serve as a Compliance Officer and to discharge the duties set forth below. The person designated as the Compliance Officer shall be responsible for developing, implementing, and administering the Compliance Plan and ensuring that Verizon Wireless complies with the terms and conditions of the Compliance Plan and this Consent Decree. In addition to the general knowledge of the Communications Laws necessary to discharge his or her duties under this Consent Decree, the Compliance Officer shall have specific knowledge or rely on other individuals with specific knowledge of the information security principles and practices necessary to implement the information security requirements of this Consent Decree, Section 222 of the Act, and the Transparency Rule, before assuming his/her duties. The Compliance Officer or managers reporting to the Compliance Officer with responsibilities related to this Consent Decree shall be privacy certified by an industry certifying organization and keep current through appropriate continuing privacy education courses.

18. Compliance Plan. For purposes of settling the matters set forth herein, Verizon Wireless agrees that it shall implement the following procedures:

- (b) Security. Verizon Wireless shall generate the UIDH of a customer using methods that comply with reasonable and accepted security standards.
- (c) Other Restrictions. Verizon Wireless shall maintain its current practice of (1) removing the UIDH from an ineligible line within a reasonable period after activation and not use these UIDHs for any purpose;³⁶ (2) allowing customers eligible to participate in the RMA program to opt out of having UIDH inserted in their HTTP traffic; (3) allowing customers who opt in pursuant to subsection 18(a) to subsequently opt out at any time, and (4) disclosing Verizon Wireless practices and use of the UIDH in its privacy policies and FAQs and update such disclosures as appropriate.
- (d) Operating Procedures. Within sixty (60) calendar days of the Effective Date Verizon Wireless shall establish Operating Procedures designed to ensure its compliance with subparagraphs (a) and (c) of this section. In the Operating Procedures, Verizon Wireless shall ensure that if another Verizon entity receives the UIDH from Verizon, that Verizon entity will not share it in a way that Verizon Wireless would be prohibited from doing directly under the terms of this Consent Decree. The Operating Procedures also will reflect that Verizon is permitted to share the UIDH among Verizon entities with either opt-out or opt-in customer consent.

19. Reporting Noncompliance. Verizon Wireless shall report any noncompliance with Section 222(b) of the Act, the Transparency Rule, and with the terms and conditions of this Consent Decree that is more than an anomaly within fifteen (15) calendar days after discovery of such noncompliance. Such reports shall include a detailed explanation of: (i) each instance of noncompliance that is more than an anomaly; (ii) the steps that Verizon Wireless has taken or will take to remedy such noncompliance; (iii) the schedule on which such remedial actions will be taken; and (iv) the steps that Verizon Wireless has taken or will take to prevent the recurrence of any such noncompliance.
