- In December 2015, Governor John Hickenlooper declared Colorado Springs as America's Cyber Capital, launching an initiative to focus Colorado's economic development efforts in cyber in the region.<sup>7</sup> Employers, workforce planners, and education stakeholders recognize that these new investments in the cybersecurity sector reflect the importance of entry-level positions and a mature career pathway as a critical workforce development element. As part of Governor Hickenlooper's initiative, Pikes Peak Community College (PPCC) leaders agreed to develop a new cybersecurity associate degree program, supplemented by non-credit industry certification programs that would help to develop a qualified workforce quickly.

Delaware

- University of Delaware Cybersecurity Initiative (UDCSI) - The UD Cybersecurity Initiative (UDCSI) was established in 2014 as a partnership among the state, the University, federal agencies, and the private sector to advance education, training, and research for understanding, defining, addressing, and solving cybersecurity problems. UDCSI programs feature hands-on practical applications, a strong faculty, distinguished lectures series, and fundamental research focused on developing solutions to advancing threats, best practices and standard protocols for optimal security so that every type and size of business can protect itself. The Initiative works closely with the University's cybersecurity undergraduate minor and Masters' program, and is actively developing a state-supported cybersecurity range that will enable simulations which prepare existing and future cyber-professionals for real world situations. The University of Delaware is accredited through the National Security Agency and the Department of Homeland Cyber Defense Education as a National Center of Academic Excellence in Cyber Defense Education through academic year 2021. UD's status as a CAE and the UDCSI's ongoing initiatives will serve as key resources available for assisting DACEE in the achievement of its goals.

- Under the leadership of Governor Markell, the State of Delaware has established several cyber-related initiatives in addition to its support for the UDCSI cybersecurity range. Executive Order 55 established the Delaware Cyber Security Council to promote cybersecurity partnerships among higher education, government, and small and large businesses and make recommendations on best practices for advancing security in Delaware. UDCSI's Director serves on the Council and will seek to engage members of this Council in the work of DACEE. The Governor also initiated the Delaware Blockchain Initiative to advance the State's standing as a desirable, efficient location to incorporate.
- Delaware TechHire Initiative
- Cyber Camp: Each summer the University of Delaware sponsors a US Cyber Challenge cybersecurity boot-camp that provides a week of workshops, skill building, a job fair, and a capture the flag competition. This program is aimed at high school, undergraduate, and graduate participants and is used as an outreach and recruitment platform.
