Subject: FCC's Consumer and Governmental Affairs Bureau grants Miracom USA a conditional certification to provide Internet Protocol Captioned Telephone Service

On May 13, 2014, the FCC's Consumer and Governmental Affairs Bureau released a Public Notice granting conditional certification to Miracom USA to provide Internet Protocol Captioned Telephone Service (IP CTS), a form of telecommunications relay services (TRS) that is eligible for compensation from the Interstate TRS Fund. Miracom stated in its application for certification that it plans to offer IP CTS under a brand name, Innocaption, which is designed for registered users to place and receive IP CTS calls with their mobile devices.
