

Merger of AOL and Time warner will effectivly eliminate competition.
As demand for faster and faster internet connection is needed and or wanted by the public,

Cable modems will become the most cost effective method.

If aol has complete control of the cable market other ISP's will be eliminated.

Cable connection is not a consumer choice, unlike the phone connections cable has only one service provider. Aol is running scared of cable connections because of a loss of market share. Cable like the phone should be accessable like dial up connections should be available to all isp's.
