

AOL is a wonderful company. They have enriched my children's life with everything that they have done.

Instant messaging, research, the Internet and their wonderful AOL community has done nothing but added to our knowledge of the world and literally brought our family closer together.

I look forward to this merger and do not fear it at all. I can't wait to see what they will bring to our lives in the future.

Thank you for your time.