

Can we say death grip on the communications industry? How about hostage taking of the target audience potential advertisers would like to campaign to but can not because it's a competitor of TW or AOL? This is a bad move and I think you guys know it.