

I am very concerned the merger of AOL and Time Warner could lead to censorship of unpopular opinions on their computer networks. The merger of these two companies is not in the interests of the consumer. If the FCC would create the condition that AOL and Time Warner must allow freedom of all legal speech without cancellation of server or other types of persecution, then the merger would be more beneficial to the consumer.