

I support the Echostar-DIRECTV merger. I see several benefits:

1. Combined bandwidth will allow locals in all markets and promote competition for all cable companies.
2. The combined companies will create a customer base to be competitive with the largest cable companies.
3. The combined companies will create a company that can provide other services such as Internet. This will make the combined companies competitive with cable companies.

I would be interested in hearing what your views are.

Sincerely,
Barry Bynum
