

Regarding the possible merger of Dish Network and DirectTV I think it would monopolize the satellite industry. Having been a satellite dealer since the mid 1980's I can say that the consumer is much better served by having multiple choices of satellite and cable companies. Having only one satellite provider will be costly to consumers. Echostar and CEO Mr Ergin are not to be trusted with the power to control the satellite industry. Please deny the merger.