

As a shareholder of XO Communications I strongly feel that the company should not be able to legally dismiss their obligation to its shareholders. Due to the media coverage of the Enron debacle, XO Communications has escaped press exposure, and the economic impact of its operations has escaped attention of federal authorities.