

It is not in the best interest for the investors to allow the company to restructure at the expense of the existing shareholders. This seems criminal. In looking at the company's balance sheet they are not bankrupt.